Not as rich or as deep as the other cuvées this year, Courbis's 2018 Cornas Champelrose is still a lot of fun to drink. It's medium to full-bodied, plush and creamy and loaded with black cherries and blackberry fruit. Drink it on release and for the next 7-8 years after that.

As typical of the style here, Courbis's 2018 Cornas les Eygats is full-bodied and plush. It's even a bit warm, with chocolate and roasted meat notes, yet it remains vibrant and lively on the palate and through the long, mouthwatering finish.

The 2018 Cornas la Sabarotte is a clear favorite at Courbis this year, as it's packed and stacked with lush purple fruit. Full-bodied, plush and creamy, it boasts solid granite underpinnings and a long, dusty finish that leaves behind a powerful impression of crushed stone.
